

CANALI PRESENTS “THE RACE”

A short film starring Impeccabile 2.0

We are delighted to present our newest short film, entitled “The Race”, to showcase the innovative and exclusive Impeccabile 2.0 and the five characteristics that make it an unparalleled material, fit for the daily challenges of the modern-day man: natural stretch, breathability, resistance to creases, stains and water.

“The Race” follows two contemporary commuters dressed in Impeccabile 2.0 suits as they dash through mountains, forests, fields and city streets. Dirt paths, rivers, chicken coops and skyscrapers pose no challenge as the contest is revealed to revolve around spotlessness as opposed to speed and as the true protagonist is revealed to be Impeccabile 2.0, a revolutionary new fabric that can be found in suits, blazers, pants and outerwear in the Spring Summer 2018 collection.

We chose parkour artist/stuntman Chase Armitage and parkour artist/model Patrick Nodanche to demonstrate first-hand – with their acrobatic abilities – the resistance and resilience of an Impeccabile 2.0 garment, even in extreme conditions. Their office-bound odyssey represents the raison d'être of our desire to offer garments that satisfy the needs and demands, both in a practical and aesthetic sense, of our clientele.

Impeccabile 2.0 is part of the Impeccabile line of fabrics, which was first launched in 2016 and wholly embodies the founding principles of Canali and in particular, our dedication to research and constant pursuit of innovative and high performance fabrics. Soft and responsive, Impeccabile 2.0 is made from an ultra-fine wool whose fibers measure a mere 17.5 microns and are twisted twice as many times as traditional threads, creating an unprecedented level of elasticity that is also completely natural. The fineness of the weave creates micro-spaces that render the material exceptionally lightweight and breathable. Lastly, a special finishing makes the textile resistant to water and stains while any eventual creases are evened out by the wearer’s natural body warmth.

Impeccabile 2.0 styles can be found in Canali boutiques and points of sale throughout the world starting from March.
